Chorus Performs At Mission

The MPC chorus and the college brass quartet, under the direction of Dr. Harvey Marshall and Dr. Bruce Hubbard, presented a concert at the Carmel Mission on the evening of April 13.

The program began with two pieces by the brass quartet, "Brass Quartet No. 1" by Maurice Whitney and "In Modo Religioso" by Alexander Glazounow.

GeraldNarwold and Charles Brasher played trumpets. Trombones were played by Leslie Doolittle and Franklin Young.

78 VOICES

"The Peaceable Kingdom," based on verses from the book of the prophet Isaish, by Randall Thompson, was performed by the chorus of 78 voices. "Te Deum Laudamus" by Allessandro Scarlatti, with soloists EileenKidwell and Deryl Head, sopranos, Barbara Nonnenman, contralto, Ernest Diridoni, tenor, and Preston Hutcheson and Kenneth Gordon, basses, closed the program.

MODERN CHORAL WORK

Dr. Marshall explained to the audience during the concert that the performance of "The PeaceableKingdom," a modern choral work, was done in conjunction with a request by the Associated Musical Clubs of America to present, whenever possible, selections by contemporaryAmerican composers. "Te Deum Laudamus," in baroque style, was performed as a contrast to the Thompson work.

Mrs. Donald Whitmer was organ accompanist for the chorus. MissAngie Machago assisted in the preparation of the chorus, and the Rt. Rev. Michael D. O'Donnell made the performance at the Mission possible.

Since I am now stationed in Kaiserslautern, Germany, and unable to be in personal contact with the results of the seasonal sports, I would appreciate it if you would send me a copy of 'El Yanqui' after each publication.

Students Comment On 'Time Of Your Life'

"The school play, 'The Time of Your Life,' was the best play I have ever seen," commented many students who were interviewed after seeing the play.

STOCK MAKES HIT

"Mr. Stock made a great hit with the students as he portrayed the old man in the Kit Karson scene," said Fred Correia. "The students who participated in the play were at their best."

Dwain Fullerton and Jim Stewart each chewed 28 pieces of gum in one mouthful in their comical scene at Nick's Bar. Dwain said, "I hope I'll never see any more gum."

Choir Sings

A Spring Concert was presented in the Student Union today by the MPC choir under the direction of Dr. Harvey Marshall.

Sociology Students Visit Agnew

Approximately one hundred sociology students left the MPC campus last Monday for a day's visit to one of California's mental hospitals. This particular hospital, Agnew, is located north of San Jose, just off the Bayshore highway. The hospital houses nearly 4500 patients. They come into Agnew on an average of 240 per month, and to avoid overcrowding, a similar number must leave the hospital each month.

An introduction about Agnew's facilities, funds, and certain other statistics were given to the touring group by the senior psychiatrist at Agnew.

SURPRISING STATISTICS

Statistics are boring to most people I know, but here is one that stuck in my mind over every thing I saw or heard. If, as the national survey indicates, one out of every twenty people in the U.S. at one time in his life will need mental care in an institution, and since people come to California at the rate of 50,000 per month, this means that a potential problem of 2,500 people per month will need mental care in California state hospitals. This state has to erect a tremendous amount of building facilities just to keep up with the influx of population. And people wonder why there is a mental health problem in California.

WELL ORGANIZED HOSPITAL

The Agnew trip itself was, to most students who went, pathetic, interesting, and educational. It was pathetic to note how an individual can break down his mind to a point where reality does not exist. It was interesting to talk to some of the patients and note that they act no differently than someone you may meet on the street. It was educational to see how the mentally ill are treated, and how in the last few years the concept of the mental institution has changed for the better. Instead of the "Snake Pit" type, which some people morbidly make jokes about, we found a well-kept, well-trained staff of competent nurses and doctors.

Council Corner

Wes Cummins

The MPC student council hosted over twenty members of the Monterey high school student governing council at their regular meeting at 1 p.m. last Tuesday.

A financial report was given by Mr. BobMorgan. Mr. Jerry Siebes gave a report on the financial condition of the athletic department. Mr. Siebes stated that all the spring sports have an adequate sum of money to run them properly. If, and it will probably be the case, some of the members of the tennis team qualify for the state tournament, an additional sum may have to be appropriated.

Mr. Morgan explained that the owner of a new local service station has offered to let the students of the college completely run his station for a day, giving us the profits for that day. He would use this as an advertising campaign. Mr. Taras is to see Dr. Flint about the legality of such a project.

The council was informed that Work-Play Day will be Thursday, May 11, and Sophomore Ditch Day is scheduled for Thursday, May 19. Mr. Reinstedt brought up the fact that absences on that day are not excused, but counted as cuts, and wondered if this could be changed. So he is to look into this possibility.

Red China Debate

Mr. Smith presides at the faculty-student debate on Red China conducted partliamentary style at the U.S.O. The audience voted against the government--in favor of recognition of Red China. Mr. Duncan Sprague coached the students on the opporition team, and Mr. Ralph B. Smith coached the student speakers on the side of the government. Mr. Smith was also drafted at the last minute to serve as "speaker."

LAW IN ACTION

THE STATE BAR OF CALIFORNIA • JULY 29, 1927 •

SELF-SERVICE COURTS

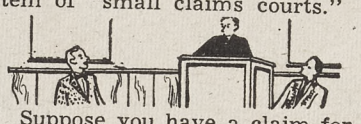
Justice for all—rich and poor alike—has been an ideal of our court system. But law suits to enforce your rights cost money if you lose, and sometimes even if you win. This is especially so where the sum of money sought in a law suit is too small to justify the usual court costs.

How can our courts meet this problem of the small litigant?

To meet the problem, California's lawyers and judges have worked out and improved a system of "small claims courts."



Suppose you have a claim for $100 or less which grew out of a sales contract with someone. The buyer has not paid, even though you have tried to collect. You don't want the merchandise back; you want the $100.

Then you yourself without the help of a lawyer may file a sworn statement in the justice or municipal court. The judge in due form calls in the other party—the defendant. No lawyer may speak for you or the other party. You are in a self-service court. There is no jury; the judge hears the case.

Procedure in such courts is simple, and calls upon the finest talents of the judge. For since you have no lawyer at your elbow to advise you as in other courts, the judge will always take more pains than ever to see that both sides get a fair hearing.

In the Small Claims Courts, hearings are informal, with the sole aim of dispensing justice between the parties quickly and inexpensively.

In these courts law suits begin when you file a simple statement under oath. Your statement sets out your claim without technicality. The judge of the court or his clerk will supply you with a blank on which to make your statement. The court then directs the other party — defendant — to appear and answer your claims. The judge may do this by mailing a registered letter to him.

If a defendant does not appear, the judge will enter a "default" judgment for you. If you, the plaintiff, do not appear, the judge may dismiss the case.

During the hearing the judge hears from the plaintiff, the defendant, and other witnesses for either side. He may question anyone and call more witnesses as needed. The plaintiff cannot complain of any judgment given, but if the defendant is dissatisfied he may appeal to the superior court for a retrial of the case.

NOTE: The State Bar of California offers this column for your information so that you may know more about how to act under our laws.

Proposed Auditorium

Now that the Peninsula is agog over the drive to build a civic auditorium, we thought the time was propitious to drag out a sketch we ran in El Yanqui last year. The drawing was by Dave Wald, one of the precocious proteges of Mr. Matteson. Dave is now attending the University of California.
The auditorium committee is headed by General Robert McClure, formerly commanding general of Ft. Ord. The MPC campus is one of the two or three sites favored for the community project. However, there has been some recent enthusiasm for locating it at the Presidio.

New Freeway Changes Entrance To Campus

Traffic Lights Make Exit Safe for Pedestrians and Vehicles

by Nev Alexander

MPC's major traffic problem, the Fremont "bottleneck," will soon be solved as construction of a new freeway and campus entrance is now underway.

This improvement for the Fremont Extention will call for a four-lane divided highway, with frontage roads, to run from Camino El Estero to the Salinas Highway. The highway will cut across the entrance to the campus, where traffic lights will be placed at the Aguajito intersection, left-hand turn lanes will also be constructed for safer entrance for all south-bound traffic into the college

Plans call for the widening of the entrance to the circle in order to eliminate the 4 o'clock traffic jam and to allow for an easier flow of traffic to and from the college. The freeway will pass near the college sign at the present entrance and cause moving of three holes of the Del Monte Golf course.

The new freeway and traffic lights are expected to speed up exits and entrances to the college and will make the exit from the campus safer as the traffic lights will eliminate the "running of the gauntlet" of Fremont rush-hour traffic.

This project was first planned to start in April 1953, but difficulty in acquiring land for construction held it up until this month.

Cancellations Hit MPC Tennis

MPC's baseball team has played two conference games; a double-header with San Jose JC. MPC lost both games, 13-5 and 12-6, Pictured above, top to bottom are J. Tidwell, coach, J. Morton, M. Branson, R. Rulofson, R. Wolverton, F. Castro, P. Ojeda, J. Kuwatani, L. Feliciano, B. Napoli, P. Bartowich, D.Dirk, and E. Albert.

Lobo Lowdown

by Harvey

Lobo double duty athlete Paul Chalmers, who was one of MPC's top linemen and is presently an important part of the Lobo tennis squad, may get to play football under Dick Voris after all.

Versatile Pacific Grove graduate Chalmers has just received word from the home of the "Knights of the Hudson," West Point, that he has been accepted and may enroll for next fall's semester.

Congratulations to you, Paul, and best wishes in your years at the Point. Say hello to Mr. Voris for me.

If you get the chance, go up to the men's gym some day and say hello to our new coach, Dick Friend. But take heed--say hello and run or he will talk an ear off with football. As a matter of fact, he talks it so well that the words Friend and football are becoming synonymous. Ah, and we love it.

We'll get that Hartnell yet.

MPC's track team has been referred to as "what's left of a track team," because out of ten men who turned out, there are only five left.

If anyone feels he can set a new record in any event, he is requested to see Coach Don Borden immediately.

Lobos Play Vikings Today

With the top contender for the Coast Conference baseball pennant, San Jose JC, crippling the Lobo nine to the tune of two conference losses, MPC will travel to East Contra Costa today to make another stab at a place on the league's contender ladder.

The Lobos will meet the Vikings at noon today in the "Northmen's" diamond in Martinez.

Today's game will be the season high spot thus far for the Tidwell crew as they will have their full team for the first time this campaign.

The College squad has been intact for the past two weeks with the exception of the first baseman Myron Branson, who was in San Diego on a Naval Reserve cruise.

Branson returned last Tuesday for a practice game with Monterey high school and will be back in shape for today's double-header with ECC.

Coach Tidwell's starting lineup will hold top slugging third baseman Jim Morton, the team's "little Babe Ruth," Bob Napoli, and catcher Ron Rulofson, first baseman Branson, second baseman Red Wolverton, shortstop Phil Ojeda, and outfielders Frank Castro, Larry Feleciano, and Pete Bartowick.

Hartnell will be the heavy favorites in the lettuce city's invitational as it took the SanJose meet with ease by a high 105-1/2 score.

Back On Base

Lobo first basrman Myron Branson will be back on base today when MPC the nine meets the Vikings of East Contra Costa in its second Coast Conference double-header of the season. The game is in Martinez.

San Jose Loses By Default

The MPC tennis team has been having a lot of bad luck lately. It seems that the weatherman has been looking in the other direction. The last five matches scheduled have been canceled, causing the team to be out of action for the last month.

On April 18 the team was scheduled to travel to San Jose State, where a match would have been held with the frosh team. Hail, rain, and wind ruled out the match.

At the present time, team members are wondering if they are going to play again before the semester is up.

The tennis team's record stands at three and two. They defeated the Santa Cruz and Watsonville high schools, and won their first conference match over SanJose JC by default. San Jose JC was struck with the problem of not having a team at the time of the match. MPC lost to the Santa Cruz Tennis Club and to San Mateo JC.

The next scheduled match will be with East Contra Costa JC tomorrow.

Track Team Travels To Salinas

MPC's undermanned Lobo track team will be all out tomorrow in an attempt to make a good showing when it runs in the annual Hartnell Invitational Meet in Salinas.

The Lobos will be in competition against San Jose, Menlo, East Contra Costa, Concordia, and the Panthers of Hartnell.

Running for the MPC team will be Bob Younger in the 880, Wes Cummins in the mile and the two-mile, and Howard Crawford in the 220 yard dash.

Lobo cinderman John Foster will be the only MPC field man. He will throw the discus.

Top man on the squad in tomorrow's meet will be 880 contender Younger who placed for two MPC points last week in the San Jose State Frosh Invitational. The meet featured Monterey, East ContraCosta, Menlo, Napa, Hartnell, and San Jose JC.

Tournament At Santa Cruz

A three-day golf tournament, open to all junior colleges, will be held this weekend at Santa Cruz.

Scheduled to travel to SantaCruz are PeteGeyer, Vince Tomasello, Adrain Montiel, Jerry Seibes, Ted Smith, and Mr. Tom Saake, coach.

Places In 880

FRACTURED ENGLISH

The following story is kind of a Ripley. That is, you can believe it or not. Not that I question the story, since it was given to me by a man of unquestionable character. However, if I told you who it was, you might not finish the story.

It seems that in Boston, Mass., there lives a small percentage of French-Canadians. These French-Canadians, it also seems, have difficulty with the English language. This is easy to understand considering the fact that we don't speak it so well ourselves (ask Miss Buck or Mr. Chapman).

Well, one day one of these French-Canadians was involved in a hit-and-run traffic accident. Unfortunatel y the other party involved got away and left this poor fellow holding the bag. Here, in poetic verse is how he lamented this unfortunate accident:

Oh, be he gone
Oh, am he went and left poor I alone

Oh, cruel fate
To be so blind
To take he fore
and leave I hind

It cannot was
But is!

Open House To Be On May 7

An Open House and Senior Visiting Day will be held on May 7 at MPC for local high school seniors.

The visiting students will be treated like college freshmen enrolled in their first courses. They will attend typical college lecture classes, see scientific demonstrations, and meet MPC students and faculty.

Registration for Open House will be through the student's local high school. A luncheon will be served by the college.

Astronomy Class Sees Stars In S.F.

Visiting the Morrison Planetarium at Golden Gate Park in San Francisco yesterday afternoon was the experience of Mr. Peterson's astronomy class.

SPECIAL SHOW HELD

A special show was held for the group from 2 to 3 p.m., and the regular hour-long show began at 3:30.

STUDENTS TURNED LOOSE

After dinner, the students toured San Francisco until the bus left at midnight and returned late last night (or should we say early this morning).

Labor Management Class

Miss Mohanjeet Grewall, of Pakistan and India, presented a dance and short talk at the assembly last Thursday.

Business Club Tours San Francisco Industries

The Business Club took its annual field trip to San Francisco Thursday and Friday, March 24 and 25. The bus arrived at the Standard Oil of California offices at 9:30 a.m. The group visited the stenographic pool, accounting department, and printing department. Four privileged members had the honor of seeing the Executive Suite on the 18th floor, where no girl is allowed.

They visited the Circus Peanut plant in the afternoon. While watching the peanuts going from the gunny sack to the bag or can, they saw the processes of roasting, sorting, oiling, salting, and sealing in the final container; they also saw how each can is checked and weighed.

Everyone was free for the evening and took in the sights of San Francisco--Chinatown, night clubs, a play, or a movie. The Manx Hotel was the final meeting place.

Friday morning they visited Chevrolet Motors in Oakland. This tour took them through the Fisher Body Division and the Chevrolet plant.

The General Foods plant in San Leandro was the last tour. Here they watched the processing of coffee, instant coffee, Jello, and Kool-Aid.

Those making the trip were Mr. Nelson, Miss Waskiewicz, John Walker, Sami Demerilli, Bob Sexton, Virginia Furlong, Pat Moran, Joan Ando, June Shirachi, Nellie Yamakuchi, Joan Hiramoro, Mary Idemoto, Carolyn Hamilton, Darlene Sanders, John Biondi, Harry Snow, Sharon Jack, Theresa Goulart, Nyla Walters, Chuck Johnson, Jim Kuwatani, Eugene Lee, and Lucile Bechis.

MPC Holds Drive

The MPC blood bank is now being organized on the campus.

If you are not 21 and not married, you must have a permission slip from your parents. You can get these slips at the teller's window in the Student Union at noon or see Bob Gooch or Mrs. Marshall.
